

CONTINUOUS FLIGHT MARK BACK IN U. S.

Two American Aviators Kept Plane in Air 51 Hours, 12 Min.

BULLETIN
Mineola, N. Y., April 14—(AP)—At least one person was believed killed and two others killed or wounded in a crash of an airplane just north of Mitchell Field this afternoon. John P. Andrews, a crack pilot of the Curtiss Flying Service, had two passengers, a man and a woman, flying a Curtiss Lark, when the machine fell.

The aircraft crashed into an embankment on the edge of the motor parkway and did not burn.

Mineola, N. Y., April 14—(AP)—A continuous flight of 51 hours, 12 minutes, more than two days, was the new endurance record set today by two American civilian fliers, Bert Acosta and Clarence Chamberlin.

The previous record was 45 hours, 11 minutes and 59 seconds.

As soon as the plane landed a cheering crowd of thousands broke through police lines and swarmed about the plane and its pilots.

As Chamberlin and Acosta shoved their heads from the cabin, they were drawn out by the crowd and carried about the field on the shoulders of those close enough to capture them.

Chamberlin, frail, blonde and apparently very tired, was drawn out first. The cheering mob threw all restraint to the wind. Both aviators were smiling happily as they faced a greater danger from injury at the hands of their friends than that experienced in the air.

Among the first of the crowd to reach the fliers were their wives, who ran along with the throng as their husbands were carried about. As soon as the fliers could be extricated they entered a limousine with their wives and drove away. Their tired faces wreathed in smiles as they waved back.

Excellent Landing
After the half hour before the landing, the plane hung above the field at an altitude of about 3,000 feet, circling slowly backward and forward. The landing was described as an excellent example of good flying, the plane landing without apparent shock and gliding to a graceful stop.

The flight also was in the nature of a test prior to a proposed non-stop New York to Paris flight in a four-engine biplane. The flight was a test of the $25,000 prize offered by Raymond Orteig.

At 9:35 o'clock last night, the fliers passed the American continuous flying record of 36 hours, 4 minutes and 34 seconds established by Oakley Kelly and J. A. McCready four years ago.

Three Times Over Ocean
As the flight continued the aviators had been in the air long enough to have flown almost three times across the Atlantic. They had also traveled far beyond the distance of a flight from New York to San Francisco and return.

Acosta and Chamberlin are both veteran aviators.

The only rest the aviators enjoyed were short naps.

Small, blue-eyed, red-haired woman jumped to her feet in glee at Mitchell Field as the plane created a new endurance record.

She was Wilma Chamberlin, wife of Clarence Chamberlin. "Oh, I am so excited and happy," she said. "Isn't it wonderful?"

She had been hovering about the Long Island aviation field since the flight started, except for a few hours sleep last night.

LEECH DEMANDS PAYMENT OF ALL PAST DUE FINES

Co. Jail Faces Several Who Have Abused His Leniency

George Eberly of this city was the second local man to be taken in custody yesterday afternoon for parole, following an order issued last Wednesday by Judge William L. Leech in the county court. About a year ago Eberly was arrested on a charge of driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition and was fined $200 and costs by Judge Leech. Unable to pay the fine, he was committed to the county jail where he served a brief sentence, after which he was admitted to probation. At the time of his parole, Eberly was ordered to pay the remainder of the fine and costs within one year and was granted his liberty to provide for his family.

In court yesterday afternoon it developed that about $6 of the amount had been paid and that in the mean time, Eberly had further violated his parole by stealing a shot gun. This he admitted before Judge Leech. A mittimus was issued and Eberly was taken back to the county jail to serve the remainder of the sentence for the failure to pay his fine.

Judge Leech has ordered that all paroled prisoners who have failed to pay their fines, be brought into the county court upon bench warrants to show cause why the amounts have not been forthcoming. Charles Pierce was the first to be arrested under the order yesterday and paid $400 and the additional costs which remained unpaid a fine of $500 and costs assessed last May.

Co. and Mrs. W. B. Brinton and daughter, Miss Helen, have returned to their Highland Park home after spending the winter in Arizona.

Five-Year-Old Boy Travels Alone from Austria to Chicago

Chicago, April 14—(AP)—Clutching in a tiny hand a small brown satchel, Andreas Tschida, a globe trotter at the age of 5, reached the end of his unswerving journey from Austria last night. Andreas, who got into the newspapers because of trouble he put Ellis Island officials to in determining his right to enter, was met at the railroad station by his mother who whisked him to the home where Andreas saw for the first time his half brothers—George 3, and Henry, 2—children of his mother by a second marriage.

LECTURE SUBJECT
"The Week's Summary"

DEMONSTRATION
Gingerbread Sals
Butterfinger Muffins
Junkets for the Wee One's Party
Bachelor's Cake

That the women of Dixon and community are interested in home making was proven without a doubt yesterday afternoon in the second day's session of the Evening Telegraph's Free Cooking School which is being conducted at the Elks Club, for the room was packed to the doors, with many women sitting on the stairs and many waiting outside.

A delightful Orthocent concert, Edna M. Ferguson, the lecturer and demonstrator, with her contagious smile and happy personality greeted all and declared she was glad they liked the school and that they were proud to have her. She then proceeded to the lecture subject of the afternoon on "Kitchen Conveniences," which proved most interesting to everyone present.

"Work, Rest and Play"
"My idea of a good home is a place where people keep health, where they work, rest and play, and where enough of fellowship reigns to keep the group interested in the same thing."

The school is a rest of the essentials of right feeding, normal rest, recreation and an atmosphere conducive to mental stimulation and growth. To organize such a home center and to manage it with the cooperation of the members of the school is the modern housewife's job—and a difficult one. Any one angle alone of the task is a real problem. The entire job is a big undertaking, and any woman who aspires to be successful in it must have a plan of her own. It is used in successfully managed business organizations," said this household expert.

"Make your pen and pencil save your heels," she recommended. "Household work must be planned ahead; there is no plan in the world so hard to carry out as a home system, particularly if there are young children. But the haphazard way of doing things brings fatigue and worry and unnecessary strain and the look of care that no woman is proud to own. There must be economy of effort, time and money in any successful home. Menus, daily marketing and the budget are things that should be set down in black and white," said Edna Ferguson, who recommended as work saving tools that should be in every home, the vacuum sweeper, electric washer, ironing machine, electric refrigerator, and such smaller tools as a good egg beater, cream whipper, a can opener, meat chopper and a knife sharpener. Many other modern and easily operated labor saving tools for the kitchen were exhibited by Miss Ferguson. At Howell's Hardware store, one may find many of these utensils, also pyrex and mirror ware.

She also considered length on the Reliable gas range from the I. N. U. Co. with the Lorraine controlled oven, which bakes such a delicate brown, and so evenly both on top and bottom. There are boxes in the school may drop their bids for the range, for the Kelvinator refrigerator also from the Utilities Co. and for the wonderful Maytag washer, from the progressive Wire hardware store. Miss Ferguson told of the value of having a refrigerator where the temperature of the box could be kept at an even cold all of the time. She spoke of the labor saving washing machine, Dainty Dining Room.

Miss Ferguson's daintily laid out dining room with the furniture from Krein's store, including a linen closet, a glass-fronted china cabinet, a new console set, was again most attractive. The flowers yesterday were tulips, pink and white. The set-up for the table was a formal dinner service.

Miss Ferguson and her assistant, Miss Crouse and her ushers were again clad in white aprons from the Howell-Glad store.

Huggins' Auto Burned on Highway Wednesday Eve
A Ford sedan belonging to L. H. Huggins, 701 Lincoln ave., was practically destroyed by fire Wednesday night about 8:30 o'clock, while the owner was enroute to Nelson. The car suddenly burst into flames as he was riding near the Cook school house and was soon almost a total loss. By tipping it over passersby who stopped to assist Mr. Huggins were able to remove the tires, which were the only salvage.

CARROLL, CONVICT THEATRICAL PRODUCER, STILL UNCONSCIOUS 29 HOURS AFTER HIS COLLAPSE

Greenville, S. C., April 14—(AP)—Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, had not regained consciousness early this afternoon 29 hours after he was removed from a prison car enroute to the Atlanta prison.

Carroll fell into a coma as the prison train entered western South Carolina, and when removed to a hospital, virtually was unable to move. From the first, however, his heart action had remained good. Mrs. Carroll was enroute from New York to join her husband here. "I will stick by Earl in his trouble," she declared.

Approximately 100 boys from this section of the state will take part in this contest. This hall was secured and made ready for the contest by the efforts of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce, who have been cooperating in making this contest a success. The jury invited to attend will see this interesting display.

188 Pupils Wrote Rural School Test

County Superintendent of Schools, L. W. Miller, has just completed a 14 day tour of the county supervising the annual central examination for rural school pupils. During this period 188 pupils wrote the examinations and two were conditioned in one subject, both of whom have since met the requirements and the conditions have been removed.

"The number of rural school pupils writing the central examinations this spring is slightly smaller than in previous years but the papers have been of a noticeably higher grade throughout the county. In some instances illness prevented pupils from being present at the examinations, but these are to be afforded an opportunity of writing the papers and receiving their credits," County Supt. Miller stated this morning in commenting upon the examination.

EDITORIAL

THE CITY ELECTION.

On Tuesday of next week voters in Dixon will be called upon to select the Mayor and Commissioners who will have charge of the city administration for the next four years. It had been supposed that the present Mayor and three of the present Commissioners, who are candidates for re-election, would be unopposed and interest in the election was slight, but the recent primary developed an unexpected situation when the names of three local men who had not filed as candidates were written in and their names now appear on the ballot. This makes it necessary that all voters turn out to the polls on Tuesday and make their choice of candidates.

The Telegraph wishes to go on record as endorsing the present administration and urges the re-election of Mayor Palmer and Commissioners Charles Miller, George Campbell and Wm. Slothower and we do this purely on their record in office for we believe the city administration of the past four years has been sane and businesslike and that the faithful service these men have given entitles them to another term.

One of the present commissioners, Joseph E. Vaile, was not a candidate for re-election and his place is sought by John Loftus, who filed his petition in the regular manner before the primary election, after he was urged to become a candidate by many local people who felt that he was the logical successor to the vacancy.

The other candidates are Attorney H. A. Brooks, for Mayor, and Robert D. Adams and Louis Schumm for Commissioner. They were nominated by friends who wrote their names in on the ballot.

As The Telegraph pointed out in first asking Mayor Palmer and the present commission to become candidates for re-election, the past four years at the city hall have been attended by constructive and progressive methods. The administration's policy has not been one of self-advertisement. There have been no fireworks nor sounding of bugles. Mayor Palmer is conservative and economical, but does not let this good quality go to the extreme of refusing money for improvements that are really valuable. Under his direction the city has forged rapidly ahead in the matter of public improvements of the usual nature, such as paved streets, sidewalks, sewer extensions, etc., and has made one especially notable improvement in the parking space and other improvements on the river bank.

The river bank improvement is the only action of the administration, so far as we know, that has caused even a ripple of comment, and The Telegraph is convinced that the river bank improvement was a wise and far-sighted action and that the failure to acquire it would have been greatly regretted by Dixon in future years. True, it cost money and a lot of it to buy and improve the property as it now is, but we believe that it could be sold right now for as much or more than the city has invested there and that it is paying good dividends on the investment. By actual count last Saturday there were 135 automobiles parked there at one time. Without that parking space where would those cars have found a place to stop? The convenience this improvement gives to out-of-town visitors is worth the cost. Furthermore, the river bank at this prominent point is conserved for public use for all time and in future years will become more and more valuable.

Let us enumerate some of the facts and figures relative to the four years under the present administration:

RIVER BANK.
Purchase price of lands	$4500.00
Cost of River Room	7997.50
Filling, Lights, etc.	12745.47
There is an income from rental of the River Room of $55.00 per month, with only maintenance charges of fuel and light.
LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS.
Sixty blocks of Storm and Sanitary Sewers.	Cost $14678.63.
Seventy-seven blocks of Concrete Paving.	Cost $21948.75.
Total, $24137.38.	City's share, $2131.50.
CAR TRACKS.
Removed and filled with Tarry.	$4250.30.
OLD SIDEWALKS.
Repaired and rebuilt.	Cost $1592.33.
DITCH ARCHES.
At Highland Avenue. In Fourth Street between Peoria and Highland.	Cost $10865.62.
TRAFFIC LIGHTS.
At Galena and Seventh St. At Galena and Second St. At Galena and First St. Total cost, Light and Installation.	$938.40.

The other traffic light, at Peoria and Third, Peoria and Seventh and Galena and Everett streets, which should be added to this list, were paid for out of the contingent fund.

One very good testimonial as to the business methods which have been applied to the city's management is that bonds of the City of Dixon are eagerly sought for by banks and other investors at par and the buyers are glad to pay the accrued interest as well.

It is highly important that all voters go to the polls Tuesday and vote. This is not an uncontested election. No one is sure of election. If you have any interest in Dixon's welfare and your own welfare, you will go into the booth next Tuesday and make your selection of candidates.

TWO WOMEN AND THREE MEN HELD OFFICERS AT BAY

Tear Gas Bombs Used Finally to Capture Jewelry Thieves

Chicago, April 14—(AP)—Fifty police officers heavily armed, were held at bay nearly two hours last night before they captured a young woman grand larceny, an Amazonian grandmother and three men, and recovered $7000 in jewelry taken in a store holdup shortly before.

Finally firemen were called to bring the girl from the house, reeking with tear gas.

Wearing masks they found her nearly unconscious, slumped into a basement hole.

The three men companions, praising the woman's nerve and bold leadership, also used the adjective "dumb." She left her hand on the counter of Joseph Robinson's jewelry store, giving the police the address of the house. At the hospital the young woman said she was Mrs. Mary Walcott, 28, The men arrested were Carl News, 25, and Clarence Swanson, 19, of Chicago, and Joseph Mashinski, 37, of Los Angeles. News' mother, Mrs. Anna News, 80, also was arrested. The Walters woman led the men in the jewelry robbery. With the pocketbook cleft, an officer

WORST FLOODS SINCE '22 IN MISS. VALLEY

Many Homes Inundated as Waters Rise in All the Lower Lands

St. Louis, Mo., April 14—(AP)—Rain which has fallen generally in the Mississippi valley for two weeks, today was causing the worst flood in the Mississippi and Missouri rivers since 1922 and was sending smaller streams of Illinois and Missouri out of their banks.

The forecast was for more rain. No great property damage was reported although in some sections bottom lands were inundated and homes of low land dwellers under water. The weather bureau said the Mississippi would rise steadily for three days from Grafton, Ill., at the mouth of the Illinois river, to Cape Girardeau, Mo. The stage at St. Louis today was 31.9, a rise of 1.2 since yesterday. Flood stage is 30. The forecast was for 32.8 by tomorrow and 33.5 by Saturday.

At Cairo, Illinois, the stage was 53.6, while flood is 45, but a high levee gives protection up to 60 feet.

LEEVE WASHED AWAY
Cairo, Ill., April 14—(AP)—The old levee at Columbus, Ky., which has been causing for the past two weeks, was washed into the river over a length of 75 feet at 9 o'clock this morning. Residents of the town and volunteer workers from other towns who have been fighting to keep out the rising water, gave up the task and began cutting the levee at the lower end.

The new levee thrown up hastily in an attempt to support the old embankment would not hold more than a day or two, it was decided, with the full force of the river against it, so the cut was made to permit water to back up into the town and prevent the full sweep of the river through the village.

THREE LEEVES BROKEN
Memphis, April 14—(AP)—Reports of three levee breaks continued to the alarm over flood conditions in the valley of the Mississippi and Missouri tributaries today with continued heavy rains.

A quarter mile section of the earthen defense against the Arkansas River near Haroldton, Ark., was swept away early today causing many families to flee. Other families were warned to evacuate.

At Tulot, Ark., the north St. Francis River yielded to the flood. The old levee at Columbus, Ky., was washed into the Mississippi today.

Conditions continued in Kansas and Oklahoma. In Oklahoma just south of the Kansas line, Nowata county was experiencing the worst flood in its history, while new and serious inundations were threatening in southeast Kansas. The Verdigris River at Independence, Kas., went out of its banks again today.

ILLINOIS IS RISING
Beardstown, Ill., April 14—(AP)—The Illinois river reached a flood stage of 21.4 feet here today and was rapidly rising. Forecasts by the U. S. Weather Bureau said the river would reach 22.5 feet by Saturday. This would probably necessitate closing of the wagon bridge, stopping all traffic on route three between Quincy and Springfield. Pavements are covered in lower sections of the city and basements are being flooded.

The Illinois river was rising gradually below Beardstown. About sixty houses were surrounded by water at Alton, where the ferry has stopped running. The stage there was 27.1 or 9.1 above flood level.

Small streams in the vicinity of Carbondale were swollen beyond their banks and lowlands were inundated as result of a 1.58 inch rainfall last night.

The Walsh river at Mt. Carmel, despite additional rainfall, started falling last night and dropped four tenths of a foot to 20.3 feet. Flood stage is 16.

The Indian Lake bottoms flooded the National Highway near East St. Louis, despite additional rainfall, started falling last night and dropped four tenths of a foot to 20.3 feet. Flood stage is 16.

Route No. 4 near Edwardsville and No. 2 north of Cairo also were reported closed by floods.

EARTHQUAKES IN SOUTH AMERICA: SEVERAL KILLED

Argentina, Chile Were Scenes of Temblors Early This Morn

Buenos Aires, April 14—(AP)—Ten persons were reported killed in today's earthquake at Mendoza, Argentina, in the foothills of the Andes and more than 100 miles northeast of Santiago, Chile. About 30 were injured and considerable damage occurred. The quake also was felt here faintly.

Santiago, Chile, April 14—(AP)—Several persons lost their lives and numerous persons were injured when an earthquake shook the capital early today. The newspaper La Nacion had reports of six deaths while El Mercurio had learned of four.

Most of the casualties were in the residential sections where several houses collapsed. In the business district the streets were littered with bricks and debris. Numerous fire alarms were turned in and wire service was interrupted. The quake was felt at Valparaiso, about 60 miles northwest.

Police reports say there are seven known dead with fifty-five injured.

Miss Margaret Wolf of Sterling has accepted a position in the Singer Sewing Machine office in this city.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache, no hawking, snuffing, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in through nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES

To fry FISH without smoke or odor

1 Put Crisco into cold frying pan. To thoroughly cook the food (for example, a fish) without smoke or scorching, fry slowly, using enough Crisco to partly cover it. It will not require the constant attention frying does when only a little fat is used.

2 Put frying pan over low heat. As soon as Crisco is melted put in a small piece of bread. As soon as bread starts to brown put in the fish.

3 Cook slowly until fish is nearly done, then turn to brown the other side. With plenty of Crisco in the pan the fish is easily turned without breaking, if you wait until it is almost done.

4 Strain the Crisco into an empty can and use it for the next thing you want to fry. No one will know you have fried fish in it.

CRISCO

To test your cooking fat—taste it. Crisco's sweet flavor will astonish you.

NEWS of the CHURCHES

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Tonight's service at the Christian church, where Pastor Moore of Sterling is approaching the close of his work with the Dixon church in special Pre-Easter meetings, will celebrate the anniversary of Christ's institution of the Christian Memorial, commonly called the Communion, or Lord's Supper. His sermon will be "Comparison: The Godly and the Ungodly."

A splendid audience heard the discourse last evening on the topic "God's Way Versus Ours." A large number of children heard with interest the story-talk, "Teddy's Free Day." These talks have been a very delightful feature of each service.

Tomorrow evening, Mr. Moore's sermon, his own choir, Mrs. Rea Kreider director, will attend, lead the hymn singing, and present an anthem. This will be the last of the special Pre-Easter sermons. An Saturday the Dixon choir will rehearse the Easter Day cantata, "The Easter Victory" (Petrie), which will be presented as a vesper service, 4 o'clock next Sunday.

OLD MASTERS

Breathless, we flung us on the windy hill,
Laughed in the sun, and kissed the lovely grass.
You said, "Through glory and ecstasy we pass."
When sun and earth remain, the birds sing still,
And when we die, are old . . .
"And when we die . . ."
All's over that is ours; and life burns on Through other lovers, other lips," said I.
—"Heart of my heart, our heaven is now, is won!"
"We are Earth's best, that learnt her lesson here."
Life is our cry. We have kept the faith," we said.
"We shall go down with unreluctant treat."
Rose-crowned into the darkness—
Proud we were,
And laughed, that had such brave true things to say.
—And then you suddenly cried, and turned

BRITISH WOMEN JUBILANT OVER VOTE PROSPECT

Lady Astor Sees Much Improvement Soon in the Government

London, April 14—(AP)—Wherever English women gathered today there was jubilation over the announcement by the premier in the House of Commons yesterday that a bill would be introduced in parliament to give women the franchise on an equal basis with men.

Lady Astor, American born pioneer woman member of the House of Commons, believes the announcement means that the "whole moral tone of the British government has been raised."

She said a staid old conservative member of the Commons, disgusted with the government's decision, blamed her for it, saying: "Votes for flappers, bah!"

The expression "flapper vote" has been raised by opponents of the plan to extend the vote to women between the age of 21 and 30.

"They are not flappers," Lady Astor said. "Most of those 5,000,000 women who are going to vote are hard workers."

She charged that men were losing interest in politics and added: "Women are taking an ever increasing interest in politics for they are realizing that politics affects their homes and their whole lives."

Lady Astor would not commit herself when asked if she believed the new system might bring a parliamentary majority of women, women in the cabinet or a woman premier. She did say, however, that there probably would be more women in parliament.

PICTURE WRITING—THEN AND NOW.

In an ancient cave in an Arkansas state park have been discovered rudely-daubed pictures, painted on the rocks many centuries ago by some Indian scribe or other whose very tribe is now forgotten.

Scientists say these pictures are a kind of writing, put down as some sort of message or record for succeeding generations. They are trying now to decipher them.

It's an interesting affair. Perhaps this picture writing contains a bit of old Indian history, recording the adventures of some dusky nation centuries before Columbus came. Perhaps it tells some chapter in Indian theology, or notes some early scientific discovery.

No matter. It isn't the only bit of picture writing that lies about us, waiting to be interpreted. No man ever expressed his inner thought as clearly as he wished; no man ever was able to present his own visions to his fellow men in just the way he himself saw them.

All writing, from twentieth century free verse back to Homer, is alike in that respect; it is the more or less successful effort of a dreamer or a poet or a seer to record for posterity his conception of the power and the glory in which life is enshrouded.

Shakespeare had his vision of life, and all his plays represent his attempt to reveal it to us. Milton, too, had his vision, and Bunyan and Shelley and tortured, cynical Swift, and Whitman and Tolstoy; and all left picture writings, as it were, to make it plain to us.

One saw life as a pageant begirt with splendor and suffering and hope; another conceived it as a long fight between the sons of light and the powers of darkness; another could see only a painful, hopeless pilgrimage through a vale of woe and denial; another envisioned an everlasting revolt, begirt with beauty and majesty. No two saw it the same.

These are our picture writings. They wait, between book covers, for each of us to decipher as best he can. No longer are we rude savages, squinting in the dusk at red daubs on a bare rock and spelling out their meaning; our picture writing is traced by high artists on lofty canvasses.

Yet we are akin to these forgotten red men. We, like them, find life full of puzzles and contradictions that we do not understand. And, like them, we turn to our picture writings for guidance.

WHAT! NO REVOLVERS?

One by one the glories of this world fade and depart. The sovereign state of Montana is now about to enact a law prohibiting the wearing of revolvers.

Men now living can remember when a revolver was as much a part of a Montanan's street equipment as a pair of suspenders. A man was apt to be embarrassed if he appeared in public without either.

But those days are gone. Only in places like Chicago is the pistol still essential. Montana has ceased to be on the frontier. Butte is as urbane as Boston.

Somehow, we hate to think of it. There was a dash and color to the old days. Compare the western outlaw with this modern, big city counterpart. Slade, gunman and killer, who ended his days dancing on the air before a Vigilance Committee—he was worth a hundred of the Durkins and Chapmans the east spawns.

It may be wrong to say it; but we hate to see the gun-toting frontier vanish.

THE VENEER IS STILL THIN.

Consider the strange ways of what we call civilized people.

In Tripp, S. D., members of a religious cult tied a woman in bed and kept her there, without food, for three days, "to drive the devil from her body." Press dispatches say these folk became nearly hysterical when officers finally drove them away and rescued the woman.

The superstitious, cruel man of the Dark Ages is still with us, covered only by a thin veneer of civilization. A few centuries ago such practices were indulged in by the most educated people in the community; today there are many who consider them efficacious.

Verily, the work of public education has much yet to accomplish!

IT DOESN'T PAY.

Fifteen years ago Jesse Sharp, "lifer," escaped from the Ohio penitentiary. The other day, old and broken, he came back voluntarily.

The strain of evading police, of fearing constantly that he would be caught, was too great, he said. It ruined his health and prevented him from getting any enjoyment out of his freedom. So he came back.

A law-breaker pays for his crime in more ways than one. This man found out that a man's own conscience can punish him more sharply than any man-made prison.

It doesn't always pay, after all.

Who remembers the old-fashioned woman who used to eat three meals a day?

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Fair Bobby Shaftoe felt real proud that he could show the Tynymites crowd the way his little sailboat sailed across the deep blue sea. He pushed it out a ways and then, 'twould float right back to shore again. Then Clowdy sat down on the sand and said, "Say, just watch me."

He tossed his shoes up in the air, and shortly both his feet were bare. He scampered to the water's edge, and shouted, "Gee it's cold." "Oh, go on in," roared Clowdy. "It's warmer when you're once inside." So Clowdy shouted, "Sure I will. I'll show you I am bold."

He waded in up to his knees and, my, at first he thought he'd freeze. But then, when he got used to it, it wasn't bad at all. "Watch out," cried Clowdy, "there are stones. Don't stumble now, and break your bones." And Clowdy walked quite cautiously just so he wouldn't fall.

The boat was then pushed out to him, and very soon he made it skim across the glassy water just as slick as slick can be. The others then went wading too. It was a lot of fun to do. But Bobby Shaftoe stayed on shore, 'cause quite afraid was he.

A ways from shore a boat went by and made some little waves roll high. They tipped the sailboat over and this quickly stopped their fun. A lump rose in poor Bobby's throat. "Oh, my," said he, "don't spoil my boat." But Clowdy quickly told him it would dry out in the sun.

Then all the Tynymites left the lad and thanked him for the fun they'd had. And then they heard a country maiden sing a milking song. They rushed right up, quite unafraid, and said "Where are you going, Maud?" And she replied, "Amilking! Won't you come and go along?"

(The Tynymites meet old Peter Piper in the next story?)

It... Mrs. Allbright cried indignantly. "She had not said a word to Bob about acting out a scene which had taken place between her and my father."

"You had been with Miss Lane and Mr. Hathaway all evening, so that they could not have been continuing a conversation already begun?" Churchill smiled.

"I had not," Mrs. Allbright flashed angrily.

"Then you cannot be sure that such a conversation had not taken place, in which Miss Lane had promised to demonstrate to her sister's

SAINT and SINNER

Churchill did not make the mistake of speaking roughly or angrily to Mrs. Allbright, who was not only the society leader of the exclusive Marlboro Country Club set, but the daughter of the man for whose murder Cherry was being tried, and therefore a sympathetic figure in the eyes of the jury.

"Mrs. Allbright, I will ask you to continue your story of the events of the evening of Saturday, October 2," Stephen Churchill requested courteously. "After you had offered your congratulations, what did Mr. Robert Hathaway reply?"

"He said, 'Cherry was demonstrating to me how she had accepted Uncle Ralph,'" Mrs. Allbright acknowledged reluctantly.

"You did not believe what Mr. Hathaway said?" Churchill asked with apparent sympathy.

"I certainly did not!" "Since you had only met Miss Lane that evening, may I ask why you doubted the explanation?" Churchill prodded, still with unctuous courtesy.

sweetheart how she had accepted her own fiancé?"

"Mrs. Allbright, are you sure you repeated the exact words of Miss Lane? Are you sure she said, 'I'll give you your answer now, Bob?'" "I certainly am!" Mrs. Allbright nodded emphatically.

"Were not those the words which Miss Lane used—I'll give you your answer now, darling—and not 'Bob?'"

"I'm almost sure she said 'Bob,'" Mrs. Allbright faltered. "But not entirely sure, Mrs. Allbright," Churchill persisted.

"No—not positive, but I am sure she was addressing my nephew, that she meant him!"

"To tell him what you had overheard in the library of the Country Club?"

"Yes,"

"And he believed the explanation that Mr. Hathaway had given, did he not?" Churchill asked in a deceptively gentle voice.

"He—he said he did," Mrs. Allbright answered in a low, dragging voice.

To Faith it seemed as if Ralph Cherry had risen from the dead to help the girl he had loved.

WORK ON LARGEST STATE PARK WILL BE STARTED SOON

Horse Shoe Lake Park Improvement Near Cairo Planned

Cairo, Ill., April 13—(AP)—Work is to start soon on the newest and largest of the Illinois state parks, Horse Shoe Lake park, in Alexander county, twelve (12) miles northwest of Cairo.

The site has been approved and the land purchased by William J. Stratton, director of the department of conservation of the state of Illinois and upwards of a half million dollars is to be spent in converting the lake and a large island in the center of the lake, into a wild game preserve and public fishing ground.

In addition to the money to be spent by the state, another half million is to be expended by the Illinois highway department in constructing a concrete road from Cairo to the park. Construction on both projects is to start within a few weeks.

The lake, with an area of 2,000 acres of water, is one-quarter to one-half mile wide and nine miles in circumference. At the lower, or south end, a dam is to be built which will raise the level of the lake six feet. Spillways are to be constructed in connection with the dam and they are to be equipped with fish ladders. Although the lake is to be a public fishing ground, the south end will be restricted, as a fish hatchery is to be established. Here, the fish to be used in restocking the lake will be propagated. Ample facilities for boating and bathing will be provided.

Horse Shoe Island, which is in the center of the lake, is to be a state game preserve and wild life refuge. It will be forever closed to hunters and will be utilized as a wild game propagation farm. The state will stock the island with quail, grouse, pheasants, wild turkey and deer and with 1,000 acres in which to roam, the wild life should multiply rapidly. Swan will be placed on the lake and beaver, muskrat and other and water birds and animals will be safe from the hunter's gun in the confines of the lake and island.

Sponges may be cut up again and gain, like potatoes, and will grow when planted in the water. Although the sponge is an animal, it is one of the lowest forms, and can grow again and again with all but a few cells destroyed.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST

With Simon of Cyrene carrying the cross, Jesus was taken to Calvary and there crucified between two thieves, while His mother and friends stood by. Jeering Him, the crowd said, "He saved others, let Him save himself if He be Christ." (Luke XXIII : 26-39).

The Crucifixion

The soldiers cast lots for His garments. Above Him was the inscription, "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews." (John XIX : 19-24)

One of the crucified thieves repented of his sins, and Jesus promised him eternal life. (Luke XXIII : 40-43)

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE

EDITOR'S NOTE:—This is the eighth chapter in the story of a former doughboy who is going back to France as an advance guard of the Second A. E. F.

CHATEAU THIERRY! The first pause in the tour of memories! And what a tremendous change has taken place since the last German advance toward Paris was stopped here by American troops in May, 1918!

The shell-riddled buildings along the Rue de la Republique have all been repaired. Fresh concrete sidewalks where stone walls had been crashed in the enemy bombardment.

Very Peaceful Now Down the narrow main street of the city that leads to the famous bridge over the Marne the cobbles resound with the clatter of wooden shoes. The butcher is selling some pigs ears to a bartering dame with her hands rolled in her blue apron. A wax figure in a clothier's shop displays the latest suit of Parisian cut. A mailman goes by on his bicycle.

It does not seem possible that Mayor James O. Taylor of Pennsylvania led the Seventh Machine Gun Battalion through the ruins here on May 31, 1918, and took positions along the southern bank of the river! It is unbelievable that under the terrific fire of enemy artillery this quiet street was held against the advance of the Germans!

Then the Germans, repulsed all along the line, launch a mass attack on the bridge. It is pitch dark. Singing in the belief of superiority they drive on. But the withering machine gun fire of the American troops cuts them down.

The bridge, at the order of General Marchand, is blown up. John T. F. Russell, a Lieutenant, is cut off on the other side of the river. With his men he crawls upstream to the second bridge. While machine gunners hold the Germans he wriggles across on his stomach. Then this bridge is blown.

Two New Bridges That was just a sidelight on the drama that took place here—Both bridges have been replaced. In the concrete of the main structure there's the legend: "Detruit—1918; Reconstruct—1925."

The water of the Marne is green today. Nine years ago it was reddened with the blood of Americans, Germans, French and Moroccans. And over there, where a machine gun barked its death messages, a peasant stands fishing. He dangles a line in the water and hooks a minnow.

THAT UNCLE SAM ALWAYS GETS HIS MAN AGAIN PROVED

Great Man Hunt Ends
in Arrest of Mail
Bandit in Army

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington—Uncle Sam gets his man! For more than three years, the U. S. government—through its Postoffice Department—has engaged in one of the greatest man-hunts in criminal history. It has been seeking three brothers, charged with killing four men, including a railway mail clerk.

The Postoffice Department refuses to list any crime as an unsolved mystery. So just the other day, government agents, who had kept up a ceaseless search through many countries, located one of the men—working for the U. S. government.

Hugh De Autremont, 23, is the man arrested. His brothers, Roy and Ray, still are being hunted.

They are wanted for holding up a Southern Pacific passenger train in a tunnel near Siskiyou, Ore., Oct. 11, 1923, dynamiting its mail car and murdering four of the crew.

The Postal Inspectors—The story of Hugh's capture—he was found serving the United States as a soldier—has been a story of detective methods. It is the story of the success of one of the most efficient detective bureaus in the government—the postal inspectors—and an avalanche of propaganda.

Prominently displayed in your postoffice building you will find pictures of the De Autremont boys and descriptions of them. You also will note a reward offered—$15,000, or $3,300 a man.

Nearly 2,000,000 such pamphlets were distributed. One of them reached a man who could give the postal inspectors the tip they needed.

It was a spectacular crime for which the DeAutremonts will be tried. As the train entered the tunnel, two men swung onto the engine's tender and forced the engineer to stop as the train emerged from the far side of the tunnel where the third bandit had been stationed with dynamite and a magnet. The engineer and fireman were then shot dead. So was the brakeman when he hurried forward.

Blow Up Mail Car

The dynamite was exploded and blew out the end of the mail car. Fire started and the mail clerk's body was incinerated—he may have been shot previously. Live steam and gases prevented the bandits from entering the mail car, where mail sacks and their contents had been blown to bits and the three bandits, their plans miscarried, fled into the mountains without any loot.

The holdup was bloody, but not well planned. Various slender clues were left and after Prof. E. O. Heinrichs, the "American Sherlock Holmes", had studied them in his laboratory at the University of California, detectives built up what they termed conclusive evidence against the De Autremonts.

Then began the man-hunt. Through the department's publicity efforts, the De Autremonts became the most notorious bandits at large—so notorious that hundreds of tips and suspects have had to be investigated in all parts of the country only to be found worthless.

It appeared that Hugh was an admirer of Jesse James, using the alias of E. E. James and such comic strip aliases as Hugh De Coy, Hugh De Lerioux and Hugh De Coy. He looked more than his age—19 at the time of the crime—was five feet and seven inches tall and so on. Hugh was a good athlete, recently alert and was credited with conceiving the crime. He was a dapper youth and dressed nattily.

All three were described as good debaters who liked to "argue against the Bible." The twins, Roy and Ray, had worked in their father's barber shop and more recently as loggers in lumber camps with Hugh. They were fond of reading, having studied sociology and poetry. Roy was given to reciting "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," and other Service poems and liked to sing such hymns as "Blessed Assurance" and "Bringing in the Sheaves." Roy was fond of checkers.

For three years the tremendous amount of publicity and hard work put in by the postal inspectors under Chief Grant B. Miller at Washington and Chief Inspector Riddiford at Spokane, the Southern Pacific railroad and other agencies was futile. "The government never forgets," said Miller in a message to every postoffice as a new drive started recently. "The hunt will go on forever, if necessary."

Found in Army

Finally that great barrage of pamphlets worked. Miller won't reveal the circumstances of Hugh De Autremont's apprehension pending capture of the brothers, but it appears that someone who had seen Hugh in the Philippines had come across one of the pamphlets after returning to the United States. The youngest of the De Autremont trio had enlisted in the army at Chicago in 1924 under the name of James C. Price, being sent to Manila soon afterward.

It became more and more certain, following the first tip, that the right man had been spotted at last. Still it was an expensive and possibly wasteful procedure to send man way to Manila just to see if they could identify him. Miller got busy by cable.

One day, it is understood, someone innocently took snapshots of Private James C. Price in two or three poses. Somehow, these photos found their way back to postal inspectors in this country.

Followed an order for the arrest of Hugh De Autremont, alias James C. Price, and recently Hugh was brought back in irons on an army transport to disciplinary barracks at Alcatraz island. There he was examined by Riddiford and other agents and positively identified, pending his removal to Meford, Ore., where he will be tried for the most brutal crime in the history of western banditry.

The hunt still goes on for Roy and Ray.

Old Map of Mississippi Valley Given to College

Galesburg, Ill., April 14—(AP)—A map of the Mississippi River valley drawn in 1745 by M. Bellin, an engineer in the royal navy of France, has been presented to the Knox college library by Mrs. Philip Post of Chicago, a trustee of the college. The relic, a well preserved parchment, has been added to the John Finley collection in the History of the Northwest, and will be used by students as an accessory in reading the original French works on the early history of the valley.

H. A. BROOKS' STATEMENT TO THE TAXPAYERS AND VOTERS OF THE CITY OF DIXON.

The questions of importance in this campaign are these: (1) Economy in the finances of the city. (2) A strict adherence to the law in the expenditure of this money. (3) The application of public money to the purposes provided by law. (4) The improvement of the streets in the best possible manner consistent with economy and the rights of the property holders.

As a candidate for Mayor of this city, I desire to make clear my attitude on these questions and to show wherein the last administration has failed to observe the law, in the application of the money raised for revenue purposes by and to the city, and to apply it in the manner according to the mandate of the law.

First: I wish to call the attention of the voters and tax payers of this city to the fact that the highway commissioner pays into the treasurer of the city (taxes levied by him) amounting to $12,154.44, a year, which the law requires should be used by the city for street improvements only. See Smith-Hurd's Act, 1925, par. 65, p. 2198. The present Administration has wholly disregarded the law and have put this money into the contingent fund and it has been spent for incidental expenses. This the city officials have no right to do, the money should have been used exclusively for streets and alley improvement. If elected this money will be used for street improvements.

Second: All public improvements which cost more than $500.00 are required by the law to be let at a public bidding. This the present Administration has, in many instances, failed to do.

Third: Lands acquired for city purposes should be sold by condemnation proceedings and the value of the land fixed at a public hearing in court, and not left to the caprice of commissioners or the City Council. The land on the East and West side of the south approach to the bridge, was acquired by purchase and the price fixed by this administration. The land east of the approach to the bridge cost this city $25,000.00, although the owner paid but $1500.00 for it which was all or more than it was worth. The lands west of the approach cost this city $22,000.00, although the owners selling it acquired it or less than $1600.00, and a fair valuation at the time it was sold was not $4500.00. The city therefore, paid $38,000.00 at least more than this property was worth at a fair valuation, and more than the city would have been required to pay had it acquired the lands by condemnation.

Fourth: The comfort station built on the acquired land was built and the money expended in building it in open violation of the statute in such cases. Section 533 of the Cities and Villages Act, Smith-Hurd Revised Statute 1925, provides that none of the powers given by the Act for building comfort stations shall be exercised unless the question of establishing comfort stations be submitted to the voters of the city at a regular election and the proposition received a majority of the votes cast. The Act prohibits the submission of the question to the voters unless a petition be filed with the city signed by at least 100 legal voters. Not a single requirement of the statute was observed by his Administration, and the whole proceedings was illegal and a total disregard of the law.

Fifth: Economy in the Administration of city affairs is a matter of vital importance in these stressful times. Money should be carefully and judiciously expended. The expenditure of $71,000.00 for the so-called improvement of the river bank at the south end of the bridge was unnecessary, largely wasteful and with little benefit to the people. A very large expenditure of money with a very little public benefit.

Sixth: In street building this Administration has wasted much valuable material, and if the present plans of the city Administration are carried out would entail a still greater loss of valuable road material and subject the property holders to a large and unnecessary expenditure of money in road building when good streets are good as cement, if not better, could be constructed at least one-fifth of the cost of cement streets, and these streets, in many localities, would be more desirable than cement streets.

Finally: Obedience to the law in city matters, rigid economy in the expenditure of public money, and a compliance with the wishes of a majority of the tax payers, a regard for the rights of the citizens should be the motive of public servants. The People are the masters; their officers are their servants, and the servants should observe the will of the Master. While believing in public improvements, without placing to great burdens on the tax payers, with a faithful compliance with the law granting the power to city governments to make improvements should be the guiding star of public servants.

Respectfully submitted,
H. A. BROOKS.

COUNTRY NEEDS REVIVAL OF VIRTUE AND OBEDIENCE

The citizen who knowingly parks his car on forbidden ground, the man, woman, or youth who exceeds the speed limit; the merchant who sells forbidden goods; the dealer who sells cigarettes or other material to minors under a certain age specified by law or ordinance; the individual who smokes pipe, cigar or cigarette in forbidden territory, in short that one, who wilfully transgresses any law or ordinance of his city, state or nation is guilty of an offense, and is, in the eyes of the law, a criminal.

Laws and ordinances are made "to restrain those who may be criminally inclined, and to punish the lawless." The lawless are those not controlled by the laws of morality or society—the unruly, disorderly.

We need not wonder at the vast increase in crime in our country, nor should we be surprised at the lawlessness of youth, when obedience is not taught, and maintained in the homes. When children and young people see parents and friends of nature are flout the law and disobey any local, state or national ordinance or statute that does not suit their personal ideas or convenience, what incentive is there for the youth to do differently? A mother kindly reproving her son for some infraction of law is in too many cases met by the answer, "Well, daddy does it!" A father reproaching his daughter for some infraction of the code of true womanliness may be most effectively silenced by the reply, "Well, mother does it."

If the highest code of morals, the highest standard of citizenship, that true patriotism that impels the citizen of a Republic to sacrifice his own personal desires if such run contrary to the laws of his country or the ordinances of his home town or city, and respect for, and obedience to law, are not taught in both home and college, what is to be the future of our country? Courts and jails are crowded with criminals; and justice is delayed because the dockets are overcrowded. The criminal inclined presume upon the tardiness of the court and the laxity of justice, and induced by these very conditions go on committing crimes for which they are never punished.

Whose is the fault? Where's the blame?

Our country needs today, more than anything else, a revival of the virtue of obedience to properly constituted authority. The theory so prevalent that "every person must lead his own life," has been carried too far. The principle of "self-determination" can be overworked; the "personal liberty" fad can be carried to extremes detrimental to both the individual and to society. Under conditions existing in so complex a civilization as that in which we live, law must be obeyed; the highest code of individual morals must prevail; the selfish desires of some must yield to the welfare of the many.

No nation can rise to its greatest possibilities unless laws, made for the common welfare and safety of all, are respected and obeyed. Anything less tends toward anarchy, disintegration and decay. Our country needs a revival of obedience to, and respect for, law. This should be taught and practiced in the home, in the public schools, in colleges and universities, in churches and Sabbath schools, in short, as Abraham Lincoln said:

"Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lapling babe that prattles on her lap; let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, and in colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling-books and almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in the legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. In short, let it become the political religion of the nation."

Owner of Stolen Auto is Entitled to Recover It

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—(AP)—An owner of a stolen automobile, who has legally identified his property, is entitled to its possession, subject only to any charges which he may have agreed to pay, Attorney General Carlstrom ruled today.

The ruling affected a stolen car at Peoria where the owner had identified his car. He lacked money to pay storage charges and a state policeman allowed a representative of the thief to take possession of the car. The owner objected and city police seized and held it pending the Attorney General's opinion.

Attorney General Carlstrom held that the owner was entitled to the possession of his car, subject only to any charges which he may have agreed, either expressly or impliedly, to pay to pay for the storage of the same.

WOMEN FIGHT FIRES

Oberjoch, Germany—Winter and summer, stormy and fair, women in this mountain village roll their hose. At least, they do when fires are put out and the women's fire department is ready to go home and finish cooking dinner for the family. The fire brigade originally was composed of men, but they were so slow in responding to alarms that their wives usurped them.

Three months ago he was thin and frail—he had no appetite and didn't want to play with other children. Look at him now with his robust frame, his healthy color and sparkling eyes! Just watch him eat. Cod Liver Oil would have helped him, but he couldn't take the nasty stuff—it upset his delicate stomach. So his wise mother gave him McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets and now the whole family is happy. Money Back If One Bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin Doesn't Do You More Good Than Anything You Ever Used.

The way has been found to combine Pepsin with other corrective stomach agents so that it will do the most good in the shortest possible time. Why bother with slow actors, since one tablespoonful of this splendid and pleasant liquid remedy usually causes gas, bloating, heaviness, heartburn or that upset condition of the stomach, when due to excesses or faulty elimination to speedily vanish. And why should any man or woman suffer another hour with indigestion or annoying stomach misery from such causes when the remedy that acts almost instantly can be easily procured?

But there is more to say about this remarkable remedy—something that will interest thousands of dependent people. Dare's Mentha Pepsin not only quickly relieves stomach distress of this sort but is compounded to conquer stubborn indigestion or dyspepsia and put an end to dizziness, nervousness, headache, sleeplessness and depression, when these distressing troubles are caused by stomach disturbance of the kind mentioned. Going Strong!

AUTOMOBILE owners are rousing out of their apathy. Everyone is talking automobile insurance, and very few who consider it are postponing its advantages. For few can resist the logic of protection against heart-breaking, ruinous damage suits in these days of continual accidents. Reports from all over the state indicate that people generally are awake to the advantages of care-free driving, unworried by fears of costly lawsuits, false testimony, adverse verdicts and bankrupting settlements.

Your fellow townsmen, the insurance agents who are conducting this "Insure in April" Campaign, and the stock companies that back their policies with all their assets, deeply appreciate the splendid response to their efforts. April will be a record breaking month in their history, and a month to be remembered with satisfaction by every automobile owner who heeds the warning—

YANKEES OFF TO FLYING START IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

Their Bats Swing Lustily at Beginning of the Season

(BY THE AP)
New York's Yankees are off in the lead of the big league pack.

In the first two games the Yank bats swung so effectively that they have chalked up two wins.
The best batting average yesterday was made by Mark Koenig, Yank shortstop, who made five hits in five times up. Babe Ruth got couple of singles.

Some world beating pitching was exhibited in the comeback of the Champion Cardinals in Chicago where Jess Haines, hero of last fall's world series, held the Cubs to two hits. Then he added two safeties to the total of 13 his team made, shutting out the Cubs 5-0.

A lightning finish enabled the Chicago White Sox to score 6 runs in the ninth and beat the Indians at Cleveland 7-2.

Three errors spelled defeat for the Robins 3-2 at the hands of the Braves despite the pitching of Jess Barnes.
Eight other eager teams and a few thousand spectators in four cities were disappointed by rain.

NOTES OF THE DAY
Earl Webb, new Cub slugger, failed to get a hit off Haines in three trips up.

Eddie Collins, former White Sox chief, but now second baseman for the Athletics, is having a hard time getting his eye on the ball when at bat.

Ty Cobb capped two hits off Reuther's offerings.
Captain Willie Kamm of the White Sox is shining as a hitter. He collected three, two of which were doubles.

Old "Rubber Arm" Connolly of the White Sox got his first swing as reliever. He pitched the ninth frame and let Cleveland down with one hit.

mother, what do you think? Winnie and Nyda did, too! Honestly! Both came sneaking to my room between eleven and twelve, and we had a weeping bee together."

"Mother's baby!" Mrs. Wells kindly face glowed with joy as she drew the girl down into her lap.

"But Friday you'd never have suspected that any of us had wept with homesickness. Shopping, mother! We decided to get a new outfit from the skin out, and at breakfast T. Q. told us the good news about the fur coats. We got them at the Curtis Store, of course, and you'd have died laughing to see the way Nyda and Winnie fitted the girls who waited on us. But believe me, the girls didn't laugh.
I—I don't think I'll do much of my shopping at the store, mother. It's terrible—the girls all know, of course, about T. Q.'s giving us a year in his home, and they'd rather take a dose of poison than wait on us."

I wish you could come and live

Nyda and Winnie beat me to the best rooms, but I like mine almost as well as theirs. It's bigger than our living room and dining room put together, and it has a whole row of French windows opening out on a darling little balcony. Of course it's full of heavy, horrid, old-fashioned furniture now, but T. Q.
is going to redecorate our rooms
to suit our own tastes."

"Why, mother!" Billy took her dress? It was horror-to appear before Dal Romaine in riment so dazzling and glorious that his drooping black eyes could see nothing else but her in all the world. She had hungered and thirsted for a sight of him; the fever of her longing to hear his low, deep voice had driven her to ceaseless activity during the day and to wide-eyed, restless tossing at night.

And all she had had from him was the orchid she wore on her coat.
She had prized it above everything that her new life had brought her until she found that he had sent a white orchid to Nyda and a lavenderand-purple one to Winnie.

"Oh, where's the car?" she gasped in relief when at last there came a low, discreet honk of the horn—the signal she had agreed upon, since she did not want the chauffeur peering into their hideous little hall. "I thought I'd be late for the party," she laughed. But she jammed her expensive new hat upon her head as if it were her old felt, shrugged hastily into her moleskin coat, and kissed her mother twice, hastily, missing her mouth
the last time.

"Billy," Her mother tried to detain her. "There's something you haven't told mother. Have you—have you fallen in love, honey, with one of those rich boys?"

Billy paused at the doorway, but she was quivering with eagerness to be gone. "Fallen in love? Of course not, you funny darling! You know whom I love—but don't you dare tell him so, the pig! To chase off by himself as soon as I come!
Goodby, darling. I'll phone you what Navratil says. I love you.
And for heaven's sake, don't worry about me. I'm not going to be spotted or have my head turned, or anything tragic like that."

She was gone, the green orchid touching one glowing cheek with a fringed, fairy delicate finger. Her mother stood for a long minute as Billy had left her, the smile fading slowly from her face. Her lips began to quiver childishly, tears brimmed over the faded blue of eyes that had once been as dark and brilliant as Billy's. Then, with a low moan, she flung herself down upon the broken-sprinkled old davenport and began to sob.

Matinee Ladies

BY
William B. Courtney

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"MATINEE LADIES," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

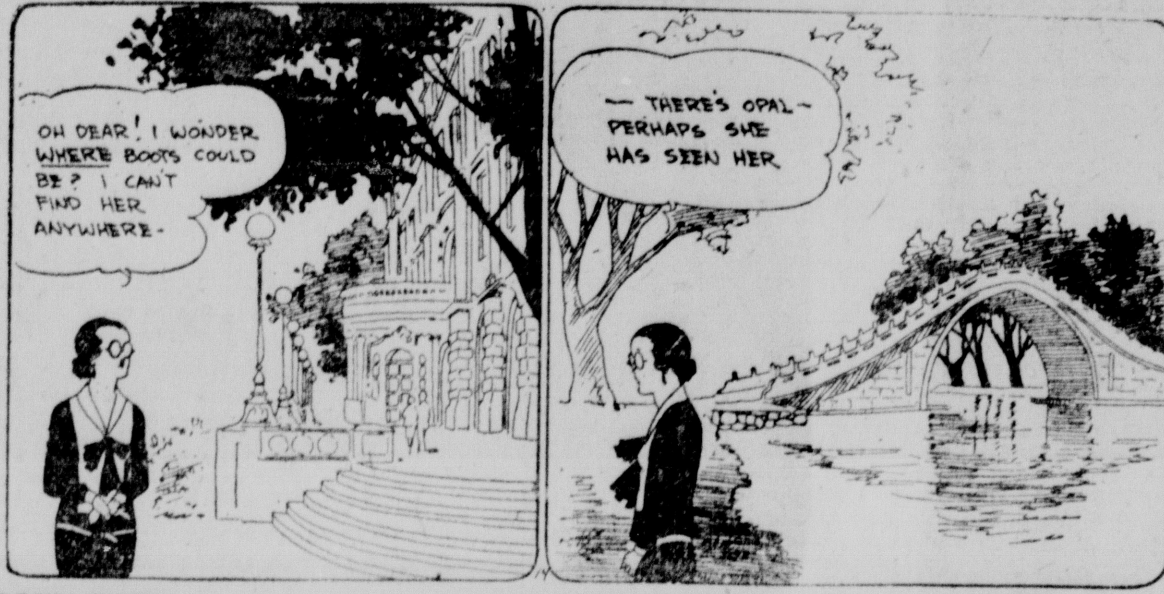

SYNOPSIS
Bob Ward, poor college student, working as a dancing partner for rich women, falls in love with Sally Smith, a cigarette girl. She warns him against the mysterious and beautiful Mrs. Hammond, habitué of the roadhouse, who finds her "thrill" in "hunting" Bob, who, however, trusts her. She offers him free use of her secret apartment. Bob quarrels with Sally, who in spite goes to a wild party, where Aldrich, a financier, preys upon her. Bob, learning where she is, raids the party, denounces her, then rushes off to Mrs. Hammond.

CHAPTER XVI.
By afternoon of the following day—which was one of those rare and peaceful Sundays in June when it seems that there could be nothing wrong in the world—a bit of shame, a lot of repentance, and a great deal of humble anxiety to re-right things animated the aching bosom of little Sally Smith. Her brothers had told her of Bob's second visit to the house after she

Her Mother, hardened by adversity into a money seeker, ready to sell her daughter in matrimony to the highest bidder, hardly brooked girlish love confidences! When Sally reached her, Mazie was propped up on a brocaded chaise longue; hot water bottles at her feet and ice packs on her head, recovering from the after effects of the night before. Mazie had always prided herself on the variety of her entertainment for gentlemen friends, but her program had never before included assault and battery. She had always kept indigestion nostrums and plenty of ice water to take care of weak-stomached guests; but never before had she had to administer first aid for black eyes, broken noses, and mashed lips to the Twelve Best Clubmen. The strain of this duty, the damage she believed done to her reputation as a hostess, the need for calling a doctor to set Tom Mannion's fractured jawbone; all these little odds and ends of cleaning up the carnage wrought by Bob Ward had given Mazie a most severe headache.

Mazie, however, was one of those souls, soft at heart, with a

FARMERS IN NEED OF HIGHER STATE SCHOOL FUND NOW

State Teachers' Association Gives Figures to Prove It

Facts and figures were given out today by Sec. Robert C. Moore of the State Teachers' Association to prove that the farmers who are paying high district school taxes need a larger state school fund for equalization purposes.

The Research Department of the Association has made a careful study of 20 one-room country districts in Montgomery County, 10 of which are crossed by railroads and 10 of which contain only farmers and farm property.

The first 10 districts have a total assessed valuation of $1,342,022, of which $837,034 is railroad assessment. This means that in these districts the railroads pay 62 per cent of the cost of the schools, and the farmers pay only 38 per cent. To state it another way, the railroads pay for the schools 3 years out of 5, and the farm taxes only 2 years out of 5. One of the districts actually has 80 per cent of its taxes paid by the railroads.

The other 10 districts in the same county are without any railroads. They have a total assessed valuation only $367,040, or only 27 per cent as much as the first group of 10, and less than half as much as the assessed value of the railroads alone in the first 10. This means that the farm property of these 10 districts must support the schools without any help from the railroads, although the railroads belong to these farmers just as much as they belong to those in the other districts. The average tax rate in the first 10 districts is only 58 cents on the $100 of assessed valuation, while in the second 10 it is $1.95, or over three times as high. One of the first 10 in 1924 levied only 20 cents, while one in the second 10 levied $2.60. Therefore, the farmers of the second paid school taxes 13 times as high as did the farmers of the first for practically the same service.

The research department has found also that there are great inequalities in the assessment of farm lands in the various counties. By using the U. S. Census of Agriculture in Illinois for 1925 and the Report of the State Tax Commission for the same year, it is found that in 10 counties in southern Illinois the farm land is assessed at an average of 66 per cent of its true value of $46 per acre, while in 10 counties in north-central Illinois farm land is assessed at only 38 per cent of its true value of $210 per acre. In Perry County farm land is assessed at 82 per cent, and in Woodford County at only 34 per cent. The teachers declare that a large state school fund would help overcome these inequalities in taxation and the resultant inequalities in school efficiency. For if the state found were larger it would furnish an incentive for the State Tax Commission to perform its duty of equalizing farm land assessments; and a state school fund is levied on all property wherever found, and should be distributed to the districts according to their needs. Therefore, the teachers recommend H. B. No. 305 by Mr. Waller and also a bill that will be introduced soon to amend the law distributing the state school fund.

North Central College, Naperville—(AP)—Early struggles of North Central College for its existence were reviewed by Dr. H. J. Kleckhoefer, one of the institution's first presidents, who came here in 1889 as an instructor in the Union Bible Institute. Supporters of the school frequently resorted to prayer meetings, and finally an appeal was made to the Evangelical church, with which the college had no connection prior to that time. The church granted a sum of money and North Central forged ahead from then on.
